

Deborah (Debbie) Croy DNP, RN, ANP-BC, AGPCNP-BC, CLS, FNLA, AACC is a nurse practitioner with over 13 years of experience in the care of rural underserved patients. She is both dual certified from the American Nurses Credentialing Corporation as an Adult Nurse Practitioner and an Adult Gerontology Primary Care Nurse Practitioner. Her clinical interests include preventative cardiology, lipidology, and treatment of patients with chronic cardiac and metabolic disorders in the underserved population.

Dr. Croy practices at the Bland County Medical Clinic in Bastian, Virginia, a Federally Qualified Community Health Center. She is adjunct faculty for West Virginia University in Morgantown, WV. She received her Bachelor's Degree in Nursing from West Virginia University, Master's Degree in Nursing from Duke University where she spent an extra year training in cardiovascular care. Dr. Croy received her Doctor of Nursing practice degree from Johns Hopkins University in 2014.

Dr. Croy is the immediate past president of the Southeast Lipid Association and serves on the Board of Governors for the Accreditation Council for Clinical Lipidology. She is a Fellow of the National Lipid Association and an Associate of the American College of Cardiology. In 2016 she was presented the Southeast Lipid Association's Chapter President's Service Award. She is a member influencer on ACC's Member Hub for both Community and Rural CV Professionals and Telemedicine.